SEGA Chairman's Message

I want to thank everyone that attended SEGA's first Orlando Regional Meeting in 2008. It has been many years since the association has done this.

Stoney Stonaker gave an update on the glazing program and informed everyone that it is in its final stages of approval. If all goes as planned, Okaloosa County plans to start classes in August. Bruce Kershner updated all of us on the current legislative issues that he was working on. I followed and gave an overview of what SEGA has planned for the year. Congratulations to Randy Mann with Lee & Cates Glass, Inc. for winning the door prize which was sponsored by Flat Glass Distributors.

On April 17, we presented the CILB approved Wind Mitigation program. This program offered one hour of continuing education to all of those that currently have their statewide glass and glazing license through DBPR. The only program that was available previously for the Wind Mitigation requirement dealt with roofing. It is nice to now have a program that pertains to our industry. Thanks for the help Stoney Stonaker and Bruce Kershner. Diane Petrie was lucky to have her name drawn from for the door prize. Thanks once again (for a third time) to Flat Glass Distributors for sponsoring our door prize.

We plan to have two more regional meetings this year and three more regional meetings in Orlando. Keep a look out for upcoming e-mails with dates, program information and sponsorship forms. It would be nice see some more seats full at upcoming meetings. If everyone would, please forward the meeting announcements to someone that may not be a member. Perhaps we can see some new faces at these meetings. Also, hand one to your suppliers when they walk in the door. We can always use sponsors and would be nice to see them at the meetings as well.

SEGA is having a productive year with approval of the glass and glazing program, wind mitigation and laws and rules seminars. We are off to a great start. The bi-monthly meetings in Orlando and Regional meetings in Tallahassee, Jacksonville and Tampa are all things that have not been happening for many years. I look forward to seeing you at an upcoming event.

Thank You,

Troy A. Hein

SEGA Members Visit Senator Ron Gaetz's Office in Tallahassee

On Wednesday, April 9, SEGA Executive Director Bruce Kershner and some of the board members visited with the staff of Senator Don Gaetz. They spoke to his staff about the glazier training program that SEGA is working on to be taught at career and technical education centers across the state. The final draft was submitted and approved by the Florida Department of Education. We are currently working with the Okaloosa County School District and Okaloosa Applied Technology Center to develop a pilot program for this year that can be easily implemented at other centers throughout Florida. Senator Don Gaetz's staff stated that they would be happy to help support this training program.

SEGA thanks Roland Stonaker, Woody Watters and Robert Palmer for attending this meeting. We hope to see more people join us next year in Tallahassee.

DBPR Update

License Renewals

Just a reminder that the Certified Contractor licenses from the Department of Business and Professional Regulation (DBPR) are up for renewal on August 31, 2008. Current law requires licenseholders to obtain 14 hours of continuing education with at least one hour in workplace safety, one hour in workers' compensation, one hour in business practices, one hour in building code modules, one hour in laws and rules and one hour in Wind Mitigation.

Don't forget to notify the DBPR office of any address change. Section 489.124(2) gives sole responsibility to the licensee for notifying DBPR in writing of the licensee's current mailing address and phone number. Failure to notify the department of a change of address shall constitute a violation of this section. In addition, if your address changes and you do not notify the department, you may not receive important mailings from the department such as your renewal notice.

Advertising of License Number

According to Rule 61G4-12.011 Definitions, a certified and registered contractor is required to advertise his license number. The terms "advertise" and "advertises" shall apply to business cards, business proposals, contracts, construction site signs, all newspapers, airwave transmission (other than internal company communications), any electronic media including Internet sites, phone directory, and other media including handbills, billboards, flyers, shopping and service guides (coupon offerings), magazines (including trade association publications), classified advertisements, manufacturer's "authorized dealer" listings, and signs on vehicles. They shall not apply to balloons, pencils, pens, hats, articles of clothing, shirts, or other promotional novelties. Neither shall the terms apply to any single line phone directory listing; nor to free phone directory listings (regardless of page color) of one, two or three lines, which display nothing more than the proper name, company name, address, and telephone numbers in whole and in part in an unbolded or unhighlighted print or without further textural or pictorial elaboration or touting in its overall display.

Contractors can be fined $100.00 per instance if reported to the Department of Business & Professional Regulations (DBPR) Unlicensed Activity Division.

Earn Continuing Education Credits

The Construction Industry Licensing Board (CILB), which regulates contractors in Florida, holds their monthly board meetings around the state of Florida in January through November. If a state certified or registered contractor attends the Final Disciplinary Action Meeting, they can receive up to four hours of continuing education credits. The CILB Meetings are held every Thursday morning of each board meeting. In order for you to register for the Final Disciplinary Action meetings, you must contact the SEGA office three weeks prior to the meetings. SEGA will submit your name to the CILB.

If you are interested in attending any of these meetings to receive continuing education, please contact the SEGA office at (407) 831-7342.

OSHA Offers Advice on Working in Summer Heat

Summer officially began on June 20, but hot weather is already upon us in many areas of the country. During this time of year, it is especially important to pay attention to heat stress and other dangers posed by the summer sun. OSHA reminds readers of its free downloadable resources, such as the Heat Stress QuickCard, which can be found in English at www.osha.gov/Publications/osha3154.pdf or Spanish at www.osha.gov/Publications/osha3155.pdf, that employees can use to reduce the risk of health ailments from working in hot temperatures. Also, OSHA's Working Outdoors in Warm Climates fact sheet, which can be found at www.osha.gov/OshDoc/data_Hurricane_Facts/working_outdoors.pdf, features more information on heat stress and other summer-weather hazards.

Emergency Contacts on your Drivers License

You can now go on-line and enter two (2) emergency contacts on your Florida Drivers License (electronically) which can only be retrieved by a licensed police officer. This came about as a result of a teen being injured in an auto accident and it taking over five hours to locate the parents. If you sign up for this and are in an accident, the police can run the drivers license and have your emergency contact information.

Coming in July: A new magazine from NGA!

In mid-July, Glass Magazine and AutoGlass will merge to form a new, vertically integrated magazine with coverage on three distinct glass business segments: Commercial, Retail and Automotive.

So, if you do only auto glass replacement and repair, the new magazine will still contain the auto glass repair and replacement information you've counted on since we published the first issue of AutoGlass in January 1990. Plus, you'll receive a magazine once a month instead of once every two months.

If your business serves the commercial glass and metals market, the homeowner market, or a combination of these, you'll continue to receive a magazine focused on helping you improve your "flat glass" business.

In other words, whatever markets you serve, the "new" Glass Magazine will give you fresh ideas on how to improve your margins and grow your business.

Why change now?

NGA's magazines have always reflected the industry segments they serve—in good times and in bad. Over the past few years, we've heard many of you say times are tough and getting tougher. We've also heard you say business is strong and getting stronger.

As in any industry, both can be true. To better meet the challenges and improve on the strengths, we decided to rethink how we publish magazines, especially in these days of instant electronic information.

By pooling the resources of two magazines into one, we can provide specific information for each industry segment—Commercial, Retail and Auto—and also cover business topics that affect all glass businesses.

This merger also means NGA can focus new energy on its Web sites. In tandem with the "new" Glass Magazine launch, NGA's publications department is also re-launching two of NGA's websites, starting with glassmagazine.net. Besides daily news feeds, we are working on new resources, including free downloads, to help your business grow.

As a member of the National Glass Association and a glass business owner, I hope you will share your opinion and suggestions when the first new issue arrives in your mailbox this July.

Please e-mail me at nharris@glass.org. I look forward to hearing from you.

National Glass Association Adds IGMA Courses to MyGlassClass.com

The National Glass Association (NGA), in partnership with the Insulating Glass Manufacturers Alliance (IGMA), is pleased to announce the addition of two new video courses for Glass Installers to MyGlassClass.com.

The new courses cover "Glass Handling Safety" and "Spacer Systems and Internal Muntins/Grids." The courses were recorded on location at Edgetech IG in Cambridge, Ohio, with staff members Mike Burk and Tracy Rogers.

"We're tremendously excited to add these courses to our growing content library," said David Walker, the NGA's Vice President of Association Services. "Mike Burk's safety course should be shown in every glass shop in America, and Tracy Roger's presentation on Spacer Systems is clear and informative."

Margaret Webb, Executive Director of IGMA added, "This is a great next step in our ongoing partnership with the NGA. Now this material is available to workers, allowing them to view it when it's convenient for them, rather than having to leave the facility."

The NGA created MyGlassClass.com, a state-of-the-art online technical school, to benefit the hundreds of thousands of professionals that comprise the flat/architectural and auto glass industries.

MyGlassClass.com serves as an affordable, flexible, and time saving resource for improving worker skills, enhancing workplace safety, complying with training requirements and achieving professional certification.

The program offers 114 courses specifically designed for both the flat and auto glass industries, ranging from safety instruction to re-certification. It was developed in partnership with leaders in the glass industry and is continually updated and enhanced to reflect industry needs. Three new courses on windshield repair were also added in February.

To discuss MyGlassClass.com options, call (866) 342-5642, ext. 126 or (703) 442-4890, ext. 126 or email MyGlassClass@glass.org.

New Educational Format for National Auto Glass Conference A Resounding Success

Attendees of the 2008 National Auto Glass Conference gave a collective "thumbs up" to the event's new educational emphasis. The 18th Annual event was hosted by the National Glass Association and held February 11-13 at the beautiful Starr Pass Resort & Spa in Tucson, Ariz.

Nearly 200 professionals from America's leading auto glass companies attended the conference and offered high praise for its enhanced focus on executive education and practical problem-solving. Participants raved about first-time sessions on such topics as changing technology demands for the independent shop owner, increasing profitability through diversification, and training, recruiting and retaining employees.

"These newly formatted sessions were a highlight," said Steve Mort, CEO of Don's Mobile. "I learned a lot and connected with my peers in a stronger way than ever before. I'm impressed."

"I had a great conference. Met with all the right people," said Troy Mason, Owner of TechnaGlass. "The NGA Auto Glass Conference is our favorite and the most productive of the several conventions we attend each year. I look forward to attending Auto Glass Conference for many years to come."

"The sessions were the best we've had at this conference," echoed David Taylor, COO of Cindy Rowe Auto Glass. "A great improvement."

Among the conference highlights:

- Jeff Dietrich of Ecotrends delivered a timely analysis of the state of economy and its impact on the auto glass industry. Dietrich's analysis underscored the need for planning and offered insights into several developing opportunities.

- Glen Moses of Safelite commanded the stage with his popular breakdown of planned changes to many vehicle makes and models and their impact on the way auto glass replacement and repair shops handle window installations and repair.
- A blue-chip panel capped the conference with its "State of the Industry" presentation. A nearly standing-room-only audience heard from executives representing a broad cross-section of the industry—from small independent shops to a regional chain and the largest player in the business—offering their insights on recruitment and retention strategies, marketing, and customer care and service.

These and other programs contributed to a consensus sentiment among attendees that the 2008 show was the "best educational conference they've attended in years."

A copy of each presentation will soon be available on www.glass.org. The NGA will alert its members via e-mail when the materials are fully loaded.

American Master Installer Auto Glass Championship

The American Master Installer Auto Glass Championship will be held October 6-8, 2008 at GlassBuild America in Las Vegas, NV. The winner of the American national championship, along with the first runner-up, will travel to Germany at the end of October 2008 to represent the U.S. in the International Master Fitter Competition.

Featuring 10 finalists competing over two days, the American national championship will determine who performs the highest quality auto glass replacement and repair and represent the U.S. in the international competition. The contestants will be judged in three areas: auto glass repair, windshield removal and replacement, and sidelite removal and replacement. NGA's Judges Committee will review entries to select nine finalists to compete in Las Vegas in October, with 2006 U.S. Champion Jeff Olive of Glasspro, Inc. returning to defend his title as the 10th finalist. A selection of industry experts from all facets of the auto glass industry will serve as judges during the hands-on competition.

GlassBuild America Joins Global Fair Alliance

GlassBuild America has joined with Fensterbau/ Frontale, Fenestration China and Istanbul Window to form the Global Fair Alliance. A cooperation agreement was signed by the four organizations in early April at Fensterbau/Frontale in Nuremberg, Germany. The overall goal of the alliance is to help exhibitors and visitors alike easily recognize these four organizers as the world's leading events for the window and facade industries.

Through coordinated marketing activities, the alliance will generate greater awareness for GlassBuild America throughout Europe, East Asia and Eurasia, and allow GlassBuild America to provide stronger resources for U.S. companies looking to expand worldwide.

"We're delighted to be part of this alliance," says Phil James, president and CEO of the National Glass Association, organizer of GlassBuild America. "Exhibitors active throughout the world have long been a part of GlassBuild America. As the pace of globalization increases, we now see more North American companies looking for opportunities abroad."
